

This discussion attempts to analyse the cooperation and competition problem using the congestion games approach. The idea was motivated by the opting out example that was discussed in class as it was seen that the structure has some similarities to the problem we are trying to understand here.

